costing seven cents each to mail, were placed in the homes of this district, right within the trading area of which Hanna is the centre. In addition to this number, several hundred additional catalogues will be distributed with Hanna's trading area through post offices situated just beyond the twenty-mile limit. That is to say that this one mail order house is placing a "printed salesman" in probably 1500 homes which consider Hanna as their trading centre. This little piece of mail order penetration, for this district alone; this one advertising effort, by only one mail order house, will cost in the neighborhood of $900.00. There are two mail order concerns of approximately equal importance, which cover the West. Approximately the same number of printed salesmen will come in from the second firm, thereby doubling the above figure. Two "general catalogues" are issued each year, which brings the value of general mail order catalogues distributed here annually, by these two firms alone, to the neighborhood of $3600.00. This figure must be materially increased when one considers the fact that there are dozens of smaller concerns, each mailing their catalogues, "spring and summer," "fall and winter" and "sale." The amount thus spent is stupendous. But these firms would not continue to spend money in this way unless they were profiting by the practice.

Hanna is but one of hundreds of communities in Alberta where the influx of mail order catalogues was experienced this week. The campaign of the mail order houses to secure full business is on in earnest, and no community is overlooked. No retailer is beyond the competition of these concerns, and the sooner such retailer recognizes that fact and strives himself to meet that competition, the more business he will retain at home.

The mail order house today is faced with the most serious situation in its history. The motor car has brought the rural dweller closer to the show window of his home town merchant. It is now much easier for the consumer to go to the biggest trading centre in his territory and see what he is about to purchase. The mail order house is forced to make greater expenditures than ever, on his catalogues and printed circulars, and this increased cost makes it just that much harder to compete with local merchants.

But to compete, today, with mail order houses; to even remain in business, the local merchants throughout the West must realize that their best weapon against mail order competition is the very instrument used by the outside houses to secure business—advertising. Liberal illustration of the goods for sale, with liberal display of price figures in newspaper and direct mail advertising, circulated through the local community, will prove the best method of increasing the confidence of our neighbors and securing their business.

Along with Hanna, there are about ninety towns in Alberta having local newspapers. If the business men of these towns were to use printing to develop and hold trade, as judiciously as do the mail order houses of Winnipeg, Regina, Vancouver and all the home trading area would see fewer catalogues, because the local consumer would soon learn that the majority of his wants could be filled quite as well within his home town—Hanna Herald.

RE-ESTABLISHING BLACK-TAIL

All lovers of wild-life heartily approve of the effort of the Alberta government to re-establish the black-tailed deer in its former haunts in the province. A recent issue of the Alberta Gazette announces that deer will henceforth enjoy a closed season in all that vast territory lying south of the North Saskatchewan river, and east of the Calgary-Macleod and Edmonton railways. This closure will continue until the animals have re-established themselves in satisfactory numbers.

During the early settlement of this portion of the west, deer were very plentiful, particularly so along all the rivers and smaller streams, and in the prairie bluffs. The timbered river bottoms and coulees gave them food and shelter at all seasons of the year, and it was in such places they were hunted by Indians, halfbreeds and homesteaders. It is on record that one man killed fifty-five deer during the winter of 1893-94 along the Red Deer river in the vicinity of Tail Creek. The following fall seven carcasses were seen hanging in a small bluff close to the present site of Alia, all of which were killed by one man in a few minutes, in a pair of timber not more than a couple of acres. Survey parties, at that time subdividing townships, depended to a certain extent on deer meat for their food supply. Evidence is not lacking that the area which has been set aside as a preserve, was suitable in every way for the propagation and maintenance of the black-tailed deer, as well as the bison, which shared with them the rich grasses of the prairies.

Included in the closed area are tens of thousands of acres, very suitable grazing grounds for the deer, that at present are not used for agricultural or pastoral purposes. Fortunately, in such tracts there is a remnant of the once numerous herds, and these, with proper protection, will be sufficient for re-stocking.

REPUTATION

Walt Mason
The grocer said the eggs were fresh, laid by a moral hen; "They'll build up sinew, bone and flesh, and make you young again. They are the finest eggs," he cried, "that ever merchant sold; and poached or scrambled, boiled or fried, you'll find them good as gold." I purchased one and had it boiled to make my morning meal, and when I found its contents spoiled, indignantly I did feel. The grocer, seated on a keg, returned my angry gaze, when I informed him that the egg had been much better days. "The Pilgrim Fathers brought it here," I cried in bitter scorn; "it was an ancient egg and when Washington was born. You said of eggs it was the best, but it was simply vile; it tasted like the outworn nest of some cheap crocodile. A fake like that imparts a pain to collarbone and leg, so now return the pennies I paid you for the egg." He said, "You didn't buy it here, you purchased it abroad; you have your gall to thus appear and charge me with a fraud. The eggs I sell are mild and sweet, they have no flaw or fleck, and this I swear by Mike and Pete, and this I swear by Heck." I do not argue with a man who thus denies his sin; I have a wiser, better plan, that will be a triumph win. I simply tell my friends the tale of what the grocer did with a fraud. The eggs I sell are mild and sweet, they have no flaw or fleck, and this I swear by Mike and Pete, and this I swear by Heck." I do not argue with a man who thus denies his sin; I have a wiser, better plan, that will be a triumph win. I simply tell my friends the tale of what the grocer did with a fraud. The eggs I sell are mild and sweet, they have no flaw or fleck, and this I swear by Mike and Pete, and this I swear by Heck." THE TIGER TRAIL

by Edison Marshall Illustrations by RAY LORRAINE

"I'll tell you Ahmad," he cried, "I'll tell you all, I'm Strumburg, just as you said, and a fugitive from justice, too. And I haven't anything against Southley. Even my father couldn't have proved his claim in a test, and he's dead. Let me go, Ahmad! Don't raise your talons against me."

The wild flow of words died away, and for an instant the form in the shadow halted. Then it moved slowly forward again.

"I tell you I'll go away, and never return again. We never had any real proofs. Ahmad! Let me go!"

And at that instant I felt Alexander's breath against my ear. "You heard, didn't you, Long?" he whispered.

"Then the work's done."

I felt the stir as his arm reached up to an electric switch on the wall. He pressed it. Unknown to me the wrecked lighting plant had been repaired. All the great chandeliers of the library flashed on at once.

The first impression was blindness. But as my eyes became adjusted to the sudden glare, I knew at least part of the truth at last. The form of the tiger had been most real and convincing in the glare of the dim and ineffective candlelight. But it was no more terrible than the counterfeit griffins that the clowns parade in a circus ring, when the glare from the chandeliers came down. Before us, stripped of all delusion, Ahmad Das rested on his hands and feet on the floor. He held his body low, his legs almost straight to give the effect of length. Over him in a rather ingenious way, was thrown a great tawny tiger skin. The four legs were fastened with some simple device to his ankles and wrists, and the great head, filled out with some light substance, rested on his.

I leaped and seized Alexander's shoulders.

"Good Heavens!" I yelled in his ear.

"That's only part of it. That insane hoax couldn't have broken Hayward's neck."

But Alexander wriggled out of my grasp.

"Of course it didn't break Hayward's neck," he said. "The real murderer of Hayward slipped one over on us—improved some business that wasn't written in the play. I've got the real murderer of Hayward, dead, down in the boat."

Alexander Pierce spent most of the evening answering questions. There were more things to find out than ever I thought I could possibly learn.

First he took us down to the boat beside the water, and lifted the tarpaulin that covered the thing in the bottom. A dead animal lay there—a creature large as the largest hound, yellow, with spots of black. It was a powerful animal, long-clawed and white-fanged; and my breath stopped at the sight of it.

"A tiger?" I demanded.

"Tiger, nothing," Alexander answered. "You ought to be enough of a naturalist to know that a tiger has stripes. This beast has spots. He weighs two hundred pounds, and a tiger twice as much. Besides, you don't find tigers in Southern Florida. It's plain to me, old Doc Long, that you don't know the history of Florida very well."

"Evidently I don't. I don't remember reading about such a creature as this."

"Please speak respectfully of him. I'd much have preferred to have left him alive, but we'll need him for proof of that wild story we have to tell the coroner's jury tomorrow afternoon. You remember, there was a time when Southern Florida was still the home of the jaguar—the great test of American folklore."

I remembered that I had heard something about it.

"Most of them were exterminated a good many years ago. You can still find 'em in a few remote regions in Southern Texas. I supposed myself that they were all gone here—even to such a wild part of the State as this. Long, you see here what is probably the last of the Florida jaguars—a creature as heavy as a leopard, and one of the strongest jawed and shouldered felines in the world."

"And since you won't rest till I tell you the rest of it, I might as well say that this big cat was the base on which Ahmad and Southley worked out their plot. They knew about this jaguar."

"When Hayward and his son bore down upon them here—after tracing them all the way from England—Southley and Ahmad saw a chance to take advantage of this big tawny creature in the swamp. I suppose you know by now what the Haywards were."

"Blackmailers, of course," I answered.

Alexander grinned his teeth.

"Ahmad Das is a mystic. Long, you're a doctor, and you don't believe in spiritual influence. You say it's all bunk. Yet it is true that Ahmad Das's mother was attacked by a tiger, that the creature died when Ahmad Das was born—and it is true that Ahmad has the most remarkable, natural, cat-like grace of any man I ever saw. Of course he just pretended the rest—his propensities toward creeping around on his hands and knees. It all lent toward the effect. He's a mystic, I tell you, perhaps a believer in the theory of reincarnation of souls—and that dark, oriental mind of his conceived an idea that I don't think most Anglo-Saxons would have ever thought of."

"He knew he couldn't kill the Haywards. That was murder, and would defeat their own ends in that it might draw attention to the past life of Southley. He knew that Southley could not satiate their rapacious appetites. They would cling and suck till the last cent was gone. Southley bought those clothes—paid for their cars. Other things were planned for this winter. So Ahmad Das conceived of the desperate scheme of eating the Strumburgs—or the Haywards as they called themselves—from the estate by means of the tiger legend."

"Ahmad Das had all the material in the world to work with. He knew it when he thought out the plan. This jaguar—a tawny streak in the jungle, and leaving its tracks in the mud—was of course his greatest card. His own natural feline grace and Hayward's naturally superstitious nature were cards, too. Wicked men usually are superstitious. Of course Ahmad couldn't get the jaguar into the house, but it was a simple matter to rig up that tiger skin. Every day he put a piece of meat out on a certain flat rock on the hillside. It wasn't human blood and flesh you saw there. It was good red beef; and Ahmad Das got blood stains on his shirt carrying it down there. And it wasn't any time at all until they got that big cat so that he stayed around the jungle at the base of the hill. The inside work couldn't be done in the bright light, so it was necessary to pretend that the lighting plant was broken. The faint light of candles gave just the proper atmosphere."

"I'm crazy about the whole scheme, Long. It worked out to perfection except for one thing. Nobody had counted on the jaguar killing Hayward."

"What were you doing with that shirt—and the beef blood?"

"Simply making the necessary tests—so as to prove my story to the jury tomorrow. If I hadn't Freeman would have had poor Ahmad—the most faithful soul in the world—hanged and hung for murder by now—mentally, at least."

"And lastly, how did you come to be involved in this affair at all? Did you come just because I sent for you?"

"I'm a private detective, Long," was his quiet answer. "I don't work for the State, although the State employs me sometimes. Southley himself wrote for me to come to help him out. I told him I couldn't at first—that was some weeks ago—but I knew a young man that would be of the greatest assistance to him in the hour of need. That young man had been in two or three bad messes before—the affair at Wildmarsh, and the story of the cobra curse, and the Mole. Southley had met the young man in a visit in Tampa, and he liked him. So the next day this young chap—what a bone-head he has been—got a letter from Southley asking him down for a week's shooting, fishing, and rest. He was a doctor and his name was Long."

Vilas left on the night train. He packed his bag in silence, and was rowed over to the railroad track whence he could go to the station. When midnight hung still and mysterious over the water world, Josephine and I found ourselves alone on the great veranda.

"Let's walk down to the water's edge," she suggested. "It's drying up so quickly. It will be gone in a few days more."

"And I will be gone, too," I told her.

She walked in front of me, down the narrow path. And I was struggling for words that wouldn't come.

"Did you know, Miss Southley, that Alexander was responsible for my invitation here?" I asked her at last.

She did not even turn her head. "I found it out tonight."

"Do you see what that means? That I was sent here to serve. And all I did was make mistakes."

"They started on the day we met—when I let you go without providing means of ever seeing you again," I went on. "Fate protected me then. I wonder if I can ask it to protect me now—after all the other mistakes I've made. And the worst of them all—the things that hurt most—are the things I said and thought of you."

Her voice was scarcely more than a whisper when she answered me.

"They hurt me, too."

"They showed me up as the poorer clay," I told her sadly. "They exposed me—a doubting and suspicious man, and a blind man, too. One who is unable to believe in his finer instincts. Of course, I see now why you brought the pistol in your vanity bag. Tell me, Josephine! It was for no other reason than to protect yourself from Vilas Hayward, if worse came to worst?"

"I don't believe you are done doubting yet, or you wouldn't ask," she said. "That was just part of the reason, Dr. Long. The other was that I was so afraid—so afraid, all the time."

"You were with Vilas always as part of the blackmail your father paid. You were part of the price of silence, and you submitted because you realized something of the power that the Haywards held over your father. What your father told the detective—that you were to be Vilas's wife—was from compulsion, and not from choice."

She nodded.

"And for the same reason you couldn't come to my defense that night in the den—when I had struck Vilas. And the reason that you told the detective of my quarrel with Hayward that day as I was leaving was not that you were afraid Vilas would be implicated, but why was it Josephine?"

"I don't think you should ask me that. You've thought it of me—so many times. The reason was—"

"Yes."

"That I wanted you to stay, Dr. Long!"

We were silent a long time. And all the while I was searching about in a mind suddenly gone empty for the words I wanted to say. They simply wouldn't come.

And then I became aware of something rapturous past words to tell. Something was stealing along my arm, so light that I could hardly feel it through my coat sleeve, and finally it nestled at the hollow of my elbow. And then I found myself whirling, and speaking breathless words.

"You'll forgive me, Josephine, all those things I said—and did?" I pleaded. "Oh, sweetheart—"

And no mortal eye could believe the change in her that came when I spoke these words. It was one of the miracles of these latter days. At first she simply waited—as if for me to continue. And then, after a while, she made me an answer. Part of it was just words. Part was the look that the moonlight showed on her face. But was by a thousand times the biggest part, the part no human being could have been hopeful enough to believe, was a thing that her arms did. And then—

What happened then is a secret between us and the marshes; and the marshes are famous for not telling their secrets. One of their secrets is a ring that Vilas had given Josephine; and it lies in the mud of their bottom today. After a while a great joy hooted and called from the island, hoping to repeat his triumph of a few nights before. But Josephine turned her face just long enough to laugh at him.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1928-29 by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1928, by Wynne J.

One of the most common errors on the part of the beginner is the failure to play to double an adverse bid before they have a chance to do so. They often help his bid. Many a game and rubber are lost by such tactics, so try to avoid them.

If your partner makes a bid and you have a hand that justifies at least one raise, don't hesitate to give this raise. Even one of your opponents bids a suit that you would like to double. Such a double may or may not be a profitable one and the question as to its profit cannot be accurately determined until you have informed your partner by your raise that you can help him bid.

Then if your opponents rebid the suit you wanted to double on the first round (and you will be surprised how often they will do so) you can double with the confidence that your partner will be in a position to decide whether to play for the penalty or for game in his bid.

In this way you are certain to get the best result, whereas, if you had doubled on the first round, your partner would not know that you could help him bid and he would be in a quandary as to the proper procedure. He would have to guess and guesses seem to have the unhappy faculty of being wrong much more often than right. This is the real reason for eliminating guess work as far as possible.

The following hand is a perfect example of the principles just discussed:

Example Hand
Hearts—Q, 9, 7
Clubs—J, 4
Diamonds—K, Q, J, 7
Spades—Q, J, 8, 6

Hearts—A, K, J, 10, 6, 2
Clubs—K, 9, 8, 3, 2
Diamonds—4
Spades—3

Hearts—4
Clubs—A, Q, 5
Diamonds—9, 6, 3
Spades—A, 10, 9, 7, 4, 2

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade. A was one of those players who love to make deceptive bids. He decided that this was the right time to do some stunts, so he bid one no trump. Y, with a very strong hand, doubled one no trump. B and Z passed and A, still in a deceptive mood, bid two diamonds. Y doubled and B redoubled. Here is where Z should have sensed what A was up to—for how could A have a sound bid of two diamonds? Y's double and B's redouble Z should have bid two spades over B's redouble, but he was still under A's deceptive spell; therefore he passed. A now had the stage set for the chance he wanted. He bid two hearts. This, of course, Y doubted, thinking he had A in a position where he was trying desperately to squirm out of a bad hole. Fortunately for A, his partner B passed the two heart double, although he said afterwards that he was tempted to bid three diamonds but felt that his partner was "up to something."

Z had another chance to save the situation by bidding two spades, but the singleton heart in his hand made him think that his partner must have heart strength; so he decided to pass. A, of course, made his bid easily and scored a game and rubber not possible in any other way.

It was a fine example of deceptive bidding, but don't try to follow A's example. This hand happened to turn out successfully, but the majority of cases such bidding is a losing venture. The example is given, not to be followed, but as a warning of what to expect and when you must fit of the proper defense to follow.

Answer to Problem No. 30
Hearts—K, Q, 4
Clubs—K, Q, 8
Diamonds—K, 10, 9, 7, 6, 5
Spades—K, 10, 9, 7, 4, 2

No score, rubber game. If Z dealt, bid one no trump. A doubled and Y passed, what should B do?

B should pass and try to defeat the one no trump bid. B has a hand on which, as dealer, he would be justified in bidding one no trump, and his partner, A, had sufficient strength to double; so how can Z hope to make his bid? Be on the lookout for hands of this type and don't hesitate to pass a partner's informative double of one no trump if you also hold a no trump hand.

Answer to Problem No. 31
Hearts—K, Q, 7
Clubs—6
Diamonds—K, Q, 8
Spades—K, 10, 9, 7, 6, 5

No score, rubber game. If Z dealt and bid one spade, what should A do?

A should double one spade, not to defeat the bid but to ascertain if his partner, B, has the club suit stopped. If B should bid two clubs and Z passes, A should bid two no trump. If B should bid hearts or diamonds, and Z passes, A should also pass. If Z should bid two spades over B's bid, A should double. This double would be a business double, intended to defeat the contract. Z is very apt to rebid, for A's informative double is very deceptive and may lead Z into thinking that the spade strength is divided. Such an informative double is therefore often termed a "masked" double.

The 1930 McLaughlin-BUICK

The Greatest Success in all McLaughlin-Buick history!

NEVER, in McLaughlin-Buick's long, successful history, has any new model been accorded such spontaneous and enthusiastic acclaim as McLaughlin-Buick for 1930. From every province, from East and West, are already coming reports of the most amazing volume of sales ever recorded for any McLaughlin-Buick within its first two weeks. Hundreds of buyers did not even wait for demonstrations, but placed their orders unconditionally, upon their first inspection of this "greatest McLaughlin-Buick of them all." It was inevitable that this New 1930 McLaughlin-Buick . . . three great new series, larger, more powerful, more beautiful, more luxurious than ever . . . should win an instant and exceptional success. See it for yourself at our show-rooms.

P. C. Petersen Concludes. Story of Trip in States

1632 Ave. B.

Co. Bluffs, Iowa.

Dear Friends:

Leaving Yellowstone Park for the east, we had some very hard roads, as the Government was building a new road in the east, and a lot of rain made the roads very tough. It is, however, mostly down grade to Cody, Wyoming. We passed a small lake along the road, perhaps 10 rods across, and about 30 rods long. Here we thought we would try our luck at fishing once more, and no sooner had I cast my hook into the lake, than I had a nice trout, and undoubtedly that was the only sucker in there for we were all fishing, and not another bite could we get. We could see plenty of fish that would dart for our hooks, but they would not bite. The water was so clear that you could see to the bottom. A wonderful sight it is along the Shoshone Canyon. The first city we came to was Cody, named after Buffalo Bill. His monument is outside of the city about 1/2 mile away. Cody still looks like a frontier town, as you find hitching posts in front of different places. From the looks of things Wyoming is a desert-like state, but wherever they irrigate they have good crops and splendid alfalfa, and even some a lot of tree fruit. The next town of importance was Thermopolis, that is a health resort, with several hot water springs, there is also a buffalo park, owned by the government. We did not strike another town of importance from there on, travelling eastward. We found the grass getting a little better all the time. The most of Wyoming is a sheep and cattle grazing country, and but very little agriculture. We took a south-easterly course, and entered the northwest corner of Nebraska. I had been there in 1887, but a big change had taken place, a great deal of that country is irrigated and a lot of sugar beets are raised. It is still a dry country, the same as it was then. We passed through Fort Robinson, Shadron, Alliance and several other small towns, but you cannot tell that part of the country prospers, as it does not get enough rainfall. We visited an old friend at a place called Genoa, some 100 miles northeast of Omaha, there the crops began to look better and improved in looks as we travelled toward Omaha. There we arrived the 17th day of August, 1928, lacking 2 days of being a year now of our return. We lived in Omaha until the 5th of March, and since that time here in Co. Bluffs, we have built a filling station and a five-room house, modern here, and while business is nothing extra, still it is fair for the time being here, for you cannot expect to build up a good business in such a short time. We are now selling about 5,000 gallons of gasoline per month, and of course oil, tires and auto accessories. Gasoline is selling at 20c per gallon, tax included, oil at 25c and 30c per gallon. We have had plenty of rain in the past, but to present it is rather dry, we need one more good rain to make the corn crop. Cattle are worth from $12 to $15.50 per 100 lbs., hogs $11 to $13.50 per 100 lbs., closing prices on grain are as follows: Wheat, $1.31; corn, $1.00; oats, 47c; rye, 1.05; potatoes are $1 per bushel; flour, $3.20 per 100 lb.; sugar, $6 per 100 lb. Quite a few people are out of work here, and consequently the country is not as prosperous as it might be. We are sorry to hear that crops are not as good as they should be in the Canadian West. We would like to hear from our friends up there regarding the home news, such that cannot be given in The Wetaskiwin Times. We shall keep you informed about the doings down here if our friends will give us the home news from time to time. Thanking you, Mr. French, for the space allotted for our letters, we are sincerely yours, P. C. Petersen and Family.

A Severe Attack of Dysentery Checked by 4 Doses

ONTARIO CROPS ARE BADLY DAMAGED BY SNOW, HAIL AND RAIN THURSDAY

Stratford, Aug. 16.—Snow, hail and rain have fallen in Stratford and the district for 24 hours. Late Wednesday a severe hail storm did considerable damage to standing grain in Downie township in the vicinity of Fairview. A section between Shakespeare and New Hamburg fields were covered with a light fall of snow.

ARGENTINE WHEAT POOL TALKED OVER AT SASKATOON MEET

Saskatoon, Aug. 16.—Formation of a wheat pool in the Argentine was under discussion here yesterday at a meeting of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, and W. J. Jackman, representative of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool in the Argentine. Co-operation in forming a world pool was also mentioned.

3,000 FIRE FIGHTERS DEFIED BY FLAMES IN FORESTS OF TWO STATES

Portland, Ore., Aug. 14.—Flames defied more than 3,000 fire fighters on numerous fire lines in Oregon and Washington forests today.

A morning blaze swept down the slopes of Dollar Mountain in the Colville forest in Washington, near the Canadian border, crossed a four mile gorge Tuesday and ate into a fine stand of timber near Shermans creek. Three hundred Canadian soldiers joined several hundred other fire fighters in a struggle to halt the blaze that has already blackened 10,000 acres and destroyed several million feet of government-owned pine.

Five more fires near Spokane killed the air with such dense smoke that airplane scouts were unable to estimate the extent of the damage.

Reports show that 407 fires have been caused by lightning in the timber lands of Oregon and Washington during the past ten days. All major fires now burning resulted from lightning.

CHURCH AT JASPER IS SOLDIERS' MONUMENT

Jasper, Alta.—Unique among the churches of Canada is the little church of St. Mary and St. George at Jasper, which was consecrated recently by the Bishop of Edmonton. The building, a beautiful structure of stone and stucco with a tiled roof, was built at a cost of $17,000 from a design by A. M. Calderon of Edmonton, and is a gift to the parish from a lady in England, who wishes her name to remain anonymous.

It was presented in memory of her son who was killed in war, and beneath the corner stone which was laid by His Excellency The Governor-General, lies the testament which was found on the young man's body when he was carried out of "No Man's Land." The furnishings and fittings of the church were also the gift of the unknown donor, while the bell was presented by Viscount Willingdon.

WESTERN WHEAT IN ACID TEST FOUND WANTING; PRICE SOARS

Winnipeg, Aug. 17.—Western Canadian wheat has been subject to the acid test of threshing and it has been found wanting in both quantity and quality. At least that is how the unexpected market spurt of around seven cents on Friday is explained by post-mortem extracts. It made millions of dollars for the farmers who, as a class, are in the market to the neck. The inside story is that traders were invited to visit the grain inspector's office in the Winnipeg division to see some of the new crop. The grain was shrivelled and light and would grade only number six or feed. This was taken to mean that there would be a famine of the contract grades.

However, the judgment was premature and all world markets advanced, though Winnipeg is still around 20 cents a bushel in the lead. The shorts decided to cover quickly and there was a rush, a quiet orderly rush of buying.

Early threshing returns from the prairie provinces indicate that the reliability-brokers may not be so far from the truth. Students of the market know that the better grades have not yet found their way to market. For the most part they are not yet ready to thresh, though cutting is practically general now. It is only the badly burned grain from high land which has so far been threshed and shipped. These samples gave the bears a twinge and immediately they became bulls. But these early samples are not indicative of the general run of the crop.

Estimates are still busy with the crop. There are around 24,000,000 acres in grain in the west. Perhaps 10,000,000 of this is on summerfallow or new breaking and may yield around 16 bushels to the acre on an average, though how it is doing so well in view of the rainless summer is difficult to understand. Full plovering, however, in view of early disappointing threshing returns.

Further bullish factors include similar pessimistic early threshing returns from the spring wheat belt of the United States; conflicting weather reports from Argentina with unfavorable conditions; news that the United States state reports rain, while the United States production estimate places this year's crop at 515,000,000 bushels less than last year with constantly increasing demand for wheat.

Canadian millers were in on today's market, buying freely and this caused the shorts to pay dearly for their position on the board. There will doubtless be dips and bulges, some of them very noteworthy but a stiff advance can be expected about the middle of September, when holders get ready to turn the October option into cash wheat. By that time also enough threshing returns will be available in Western Canada to indicate definitely whether the present judgment "disappointing in quality and quantity" will obtain for the whole crop—boosting world prices probably to $2.25 a bushel.

POLICE WARN DRIVERS

Edmonton, August 13.—Motorists who have neglected thus far to secure drivers' licenses are likely to be checked up almost any day now and asked to explain why. Police throughout the province are proceeding to make a survey of the situation, government authorities being of the opinion that such a time has now come given for the automobile public and particularly town and city people, to get their licenses. Some convictions in the near future are not improbable.

To date 110,193 drivers' licenses have been issued. It was the estimate of the provincial secretary's department that there might be 175,000 of the little 50-cent documents put out, and it is therefore evident that a goodly number of drivers have not yet complied with the requirements.

Motor car licenses for the year number to date, 94,281, as compared with 87,221 for the same period last year.

Crop conditions will largely decide how many more will be taken out in the remaining four months, but it is thought that with a fairly good harvest in the province as a whole there may be a total of about 100,000 licenses for the year.

"In Selling Position"

Alberta Wheat Pool members should appreciate what it means to the Central Selling Agency to have Pool wheat in a "selling position."

To make the best sales Pool Wheat should be in a position where it is instantly available, and where long and troublesome delays are not incurred.

When Pool wheat is in Pool elevators the Selling Agency can depend upon it being directed wherever it is wanted. For that reason, if for no other, Pool wheat should be delivered to Pool elevators.

Besides this, Pool elevators give Pool members an assurance of fair treatment to an extent never known in the days when there was no Wheat Pool.

You can best aid your Selling Agency and your own elevator system by delivering your wheat to Pool elevators.

Norma Chiddy Wins in High Jump at Red Deer

Patient and out of condition following her eight hundred mile auto trip to the south country, and having worn her "spikes" but once in the past couple of weeks, Norma Chiddy took part in the track and field meet at Red Deer yesterday. This was the occasion of the Men's Provincial Championships, but there were four non-championship events for women. In the 100 yards Norma won her heat easily, and with six runners in the finals Mary Humphreys of Edmonton won first by a narrow margin, with Mabel Cheek, the Calgary sensation gathering second by three inches over Norma. The time was 12.25, the same as the time in Miss Chiddy's qualifying heat. Charlotte Daws of Edmonton, won the broad jump at 14 ft. 8 in., with Norma in third place at 14 ft. 1 in. In the running high jump the Wetaskiwin girl cleared the bar at 4 ft. 5½ in. for first place, with Margaret Hogan of Edmonton, next best at 4 ft. 4½ in. Norma did not compete in the other women's events on account of a lame ankle.

In the 220 yards run, Men's Provincial Championships, Jimmy Paton secured third place, and performed exceptionally well in the fast company.

"GAS" SLOT MACHINE NOW FEEDS MOTORS

Oakland, Calif.—If the gas station is closed and you need gasoline badly—and you can't get to the nearest all-night garage—you won't have to worry if the newest gas-selling idea is put into general use.

All you need to do is to put the hose in the tank, put a dollar or a half dollar in the slot, and let the gasoline fill the tank. If the gas goes in too fast, press a button and the rate of flow is slowed. In case you have overestimated the amount needed, press another button and the flow is stopped. The device, incorporated in an ordinary air-operated gasoline pump, the same kind used in hundreds of service stations and garages, is the invention of two Oakland men. J. H. Mitchell financed the inventors and helped them secure their patents.

MACHINE REPAIR PARTS DELIVERED BY AEROPLANE

The J. I. Case Co. at Calgary on Saturday morning received repair orders for machinery from Blackie, Vulcan, and Lethbridge, after the train had left. In order to make delivery in less than possible time, a Lone Eagle aeroplane was placed at their disposal by the Rutledge Air Service of Calgary, and the repair parts were delivered to the purchasers in record time before the train arrived. This is the first time an aeroplane has ever been used in Western Canada harvest fields.

RECORD PRICES FOR SOUTH OIL LEASES

Lethbridge, Aug. 16.—All previous records of bonuses for oil leases at the Lethbridge land offices went by the boards Friday when a block of acreage in the Monarch field, twenty miles west of the city, brought a bonus of $870. Another parcel brought $530 and a third parcel $300 in addition to the usual filing fees. The sale produced the snappiest bidding seen at the local land office for months. The leases were in 9-23, 10-25 and 9-24.

BULL ATTACKS
Sedgewick, Alta., Aug. 16.—Fred L. Hunter, a farmer residing near here, was attacked on Wednesday morning by an angry bull on his farm and was seriously injured but for the intervention of his young sons in time to save him from the infuriated animal.

Mr. Hunter was driving the cows into the barn when his Holstein bull interfered. Picking up a stick he hit the bull but the stick broke and the animal again charged at him. All that he could do was to grab the bull by the horns and he was thus lifted into the air by the enraged animal.

Losing his grip on the bull's horns he was at the mercy of the animal and received some very painful bruises on the leg and hip. His head also was bruised, so that he was rendered unconscious.

WARNING TO POTATO GROWERS
Frank Lucas informed The Times representative on Monday evening that he had discovered a number of Colorado potato beetles (commonly known as potato bugs) in a patch of potatoes on his farm, and he desires to warn all persons growing potatoes to look over their patches to see that they are free from this pest. He has written the Department of Agriculture about the matter and is anxious that everything possible be done to prevent these insects getting entrenched in this part of the province. Mr. Lucas says that it is forty-five years since he saw these beetles, but early recognizes them. It is hoped that this warning will be heeded and that the proper steps will be taken to keep this pest out of the country.

HAIL STORM HITS BARRHEAD FARMS, CROPS DAMAGED
Barrhead, Aug. 16.—A hail storm from which farmers in this district will suffer losses of from 50 to 100 per cent, swept over a four-mile stretch here Wednesday night, flattening crops and in some cases farmers in the area are completely halted out.

Districts affected are: Glenora, Naples, Bloomsbury, Mellowdale and Tossington.

CANADIAN PACIFIC CROP REPORT
Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 19.—Ideal harvest weather was experienced in the west during the past week, reports the Canadian Pacific Agricultural department this morning. Light to heavy showers occurred in various parts and were welcomed for late season grain and pastures, but were of no advantage where grain is ripe. Cutting of coarse grains has been in full swing almost everywhere during the week, and wheat is being cut in central and southern parts of the prairies and will be general within a day or two with present weather conditions. The frequent showers and cool nights appear to have benefited the crop, and while heads are small and inferior in many areas, grain on summerfallow has filled unexpectedly well and a little better yield than previously announced is hoped for. The crop, however, is a spotty one and there will be tremendous variation in outputs in the provinces. Summerfallow land has much better prospects than stubble and fall and spring plowed land, which shows the wisdom of former cultivation. Rye threshing has been done at scattered points, with yields ranging from twelve to thirty bushels to the acre. Old wheat threshing has been carried on as well as combining, with variable outputs of from five to thirty bushels to the acre, grading two, three, four and five. Different contrivances are being utilized on binders to catch the short grain and extensive use of headers and combines is indicated by recent sales in various districts. Some damage from late season frosts, being severe in some areas of the north and east of Calgary.

M.D. OF BIGSTONE, NO. 459
By-Law No. 31
Public notice is hereby given that there has been introduced in the Council of the Municipality of Bigstone 459 a by-law of which the following is a short synopsis:—

Under the authority and subject to the provisions of the Domestic Animals Act (Municipalities) the Council of the Municipal District of Bigstone enacts as follows:—
"Domestic Animals shall be prohibited from running at large during the entire year in the following area: West half of Twn. 47, range 25. All Twn. 47, range 26 and Sections 1-12-13-24-25 and 36 in Twn. 47, range 27, all West of the fourth Meridian."
Copies of the above may be seen at the office of the secretary-treasurer, the post office of Pattenau, Alta., and throughout the above area; and further, that unless within thirty days from the publication of this notice at least eight resident ratepayers of the area affected petition the Council to submit such by-law to the vote of the resident electors in the above area, the Council will proceed to pass the same.

You and Your Mental Habits

"In the course of our busy life, with its turmoil, its distractions, its mental and physical over-exertions and resulting mental and physical fatigue, we often find ourselves 'running in circles,' becoming worried and distraught, becoming ineffective in what we do, losing confidence in ourselves and in our judgment." So C. C. Burlingame tells us in "The Nation's Health," but he outlines a helpful plan and suggests that at such times we devote five minutes a day to understanding our mental make-up and its relationship to our environment.

1.—Hurry—Do not accept hurry as a necessary part of modern life. Our thoughts may become our masters instead of remaining our servants. Until we learn to control actions by the restraining influence of well directed thought we will not have the proper control over ourselves.

2.—Worry—Worry is a complete circle of inefficient thought, whirling about a pivot of fear. It is when we substitute productive thinking, thinking with a definite purpose in view, thinking that is orderly and not entirely disappointed from previous thought, that we either find our fears ungrounded, or the way out of the dilemma, great or small, unfolds itself.

3.—Concentration—Do not think at a time. Only thus can we practice concentration. Pressure of many different things which we feel must be done often threaten to distract us from the task in hand and leave our day filled with only partially completed efforts. Then it is that our thoughts "go wool-gathering." It takes real courage sometimes to do one thing at a time, and thereby practice concentration. But one thing at a time, with concentration, adds up to the greatest amount accomplished in the end, and a far greater feeling of satisfaction and peace of mind. As our record of successful accomplishments enlarges we are given the stimulation for greater achievement and the ability to undertake greater responsibilities.

4.—Efficiency—Be efficient in what you do. Do not drive your tasks with a sledge hammer. An expenditure of a vast amount of nervous or physical energy to perform a simple task is wasteful of our mental and physical resources, yet when we are keyed up this is one of the commonest forms of inefficiency. When we do simple tasks without calling out our reserves we have saved energy for the bigger undertakings. So it is, that to be efficient in what you do, means not only to do a thing well, but to do it without waste of your mental energy.

5.—Decisions—Make clear-cut, practical decisions. To always make complicated things simple is the sign of a truly great mind. Most of our best decisions are so simple, so clear as to require no future explaining to ourselves, as our lines of action become so obvious. We do not need to remember such a decision. We cannot forget it. Practically all complicated problems cannot be resolved into a series of simple propositions which require simple answers.

6.—Action—When a decision has been reached and something has to be done, waste no time mobilizing extra energy, just do it. After the small boy has taken his plunge into the water he thoroughly enjoys the swim, but let him stand on the bank long enough and the dive may become an obsession. Seldom does the water become warmer while he waits. Once in, he regrets the time wasted on the bank. The only delay that is justified is that necessary to resolve a difficult problem into its simpler components. Then act.

7.—Work, Play, Rest, and Exercise—Keep each in its proper place. Each has its daily place. The storing up of all exercise, rest, and play for the vacation month and filling the balance of the year exclusively with work, is playing fast and loose with our mental health. On the other hand all play and no work leaves Jack a dull boy, who at times asks himself why he has fewer vital interests than his fellows. Constant moderation is as essential in mental as in any other form of exercise. With such a discipline a reserve will be available for emergency use that will carry one safely through a time of stress that might otherwise be overwhelming.

8.—Discussions—Do not allow a discussion to become an argument or it will become unprofitable and you may lose your case as well as your friend. A discussion gives an opportunity to learn from the other person and has as its end a mutually better understanding between people. When a discussion becomes an argument both parties have ceased to learn, and a judge becomes necessary to bring about anything worth while. Without a judge an argument becomes a waste of mental energy and is inefficient.

9.—Pride—Do not become too intense, but be master of yourself and the situation at all times. One may be earnest and forceful, but only the actor can afford to become so wholly lost in what they are doing as to be wholly oblivious of the acts and feelings of the other person.

10.—Conscience—Avoid the type of conscience which makes a moral issue of every trivial thought or feeling. It is a form of egotism. The big issues without conscience are clear cut and easy to understand. The issues we have with ourselves over trivial thoughts and feelings tend to keep us in a constant state of mental unrest, produce unhealthy self-analysis, and retard us from growth according to the standards we consider important and worthwhile. Introspection is dangerous if pursued too far. Self-analysis to the point of clarifying our thoughts and beliefs is important, otherwise we become wilt-o-the-wisps with no fixed ideals on important questions that are of vital consequence to us.

11.—Emotion—Neither run away from emotions nor yet fight them. Accept them as the well spring of all action. The understanding of our emotions puts us in the position to determine upon a worthwhile line of action.

12.—Ideals—Keep your ideals clear, adopt courses that will serve these ideals, and make your ideals live in practical, purposeful every day action. Recognize that your problems are the same fundamentally as those of everyone else, no matter what your particular job may be. To you they are of transcendent importance; to others they may be insignificant. Measure them in their relation to an influence upon your environment so that they will stimulate and enable the other mental states discussed.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE OCCURS AT LLOYDMINSTER
Fire which started mysteriously in the rear of a pool room burned out a large portion of the town of Lloydminster early Sunday morning and did damage which is estimated by citizens at around $1,000,000. The blaze wiped out practically the whole business section of the town on the Saskatchewan side of the line.

The fire is the third big conflagration in western towns this summer and from early reports appears to be one of the worst. Fortunately nobody was injured and the salvage work of the volunteer workers was affected without loss of life. The residential

I have great pleasure in informing you that Kruschen Salt has worked wonders for me. I have been a great sufferer of liver and kidney trouble, and have been on doctors' diets for years. I had to give up my work, but thanks to Kruschen Salt I am back at work again, and give my own little every morning, and I don't even feel a pinch of salt. I am 42 years, say 6 years, I shall always highly recommend Kruschen, and I would be willing to bet myself in a hurry. (Mrs.) M. E. section of the town was not threatened at any serious extent. The fire broke out in Lloyd and Waddell's pool room at 12:30 (midnight) Sunday. The frame structure burned like tinder and with intense heat. Within a few moments adjoining structures were wrapped in flames.

In the light cast over the scene by the burning structures, the hastily summoned town fire brigade made frantic efforts to cope with the situation. Volunteer workers assisted the firemen in their efforts which, through lack of water, were pitifully inadequate.

ALBERTA EXHIBIT AT TORONTO FAIR

Edmonton, Aug. 14.—Alberta products will again be on display at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this year, arrangements being practically completed for an exhibit on lines similar to those of previous years. Space has been provided for the purpose in the Dominion government building, and Howard Stubbins, provincial trade commissioner, will be in charge.

The collection of material to be shown is now on its way to Toronto for the opening date, which is August 23. A fine display of agricultural and industrial products will be made this year. As on previous occasions, coal will be a prominent feature, and the specimens to be shown will be selected from stock that has been sent east in the regular way for marketing purposes.

There will be a good showing of grains and grasses, while other agricultural products of a varied and miscellaneous character will keep it company. Oil, tar sands, and buffalo robes will also be included.

Motion pictures will be a new feature of the Alberta exhibit this year and one that is expected to attract a great deal of attention. About 2,000 feet of film produced largely for exhibition purposes will be shown covering various phases of Alberta life.

GIVE ALL THE CHILDREN A CHANCE

It is accepted in all civilized countries that every child should be given a chance to develop the physical and mental capacities with which he is born. Some children start out in life with a considerable handicap. If they are born into a poor family, food may be scarce or of questionable quality, the home may lack sanitary conveniences, there may be overcrowding, lack of play-space, and many other additional disadvantages. The children born into a wealthy home may be equally unfortunate, because we often find in the homes of the well-to-do, children who are not living healthy lives. This is chiefly the fault of the parents who spoil the child.

The best thing which can happen to any child is to have parents who know something about child training. Love of children and a desire to do the most for them do not take the place of knowledge. We would not think of entrusting the operation of a machine, or the erection of a building, or a bridge to a man who was merely anxious to run the machine or to build something. We place such duties in the hands of a person who has been trained to do the particular type of work.

Parents do not know by instinct the proper way in which to bring up a child. Some of them do gain knowledge from experience, and some of them are willing and anxious to learn from others. The upbringing of a child is a serious and, sometimes, a difficult matter. If it is to be done properly, it requires training and preparation for the task. To the person who feels that our ancestors got along very well and reared families without training, we can only say that the number of unhappy individuals, the number who have never adjusted themselves to life, the many who find life a burden, the group who are a nuisance to others, to say nothing of the few who have real mental and physical health, are ample proof that the old system was not a success.

Parent education is a real need; it is not a fad but an evidence of the importance of proper preparation in order to ensure that all children shall be given their chance.

Questions, concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

RECENT CHANGES IN CANADA GRAIN ACT EMPHASIZED

The Alberta Wheat Pool has been calling the attention of its members to important changes in the Canada Grain Act which were made at the last session of Parliament.

It is mentioned that a new feature in marketing wheat this year is contained in the requirements of the regulation governing car order books. This year all agents of railway companies are required to keep open a car order book. The only method of obtaining a car is for the grain producer to have his name placed in this book, either by himself or by his agent duly appointed in writing.

Under the old system it was not compulsory for an agent to open a car order book unless requested to do so. Furthermore, it was a common practice for one individual to act as agent for many growers of grain. Under the new regulations, no one can act as agent for more than one person at a time. It is hoped by this method to overcome the weaknesses of the old proxy system.

Each signer is given a car in turn and the railway agent must notify the applicant when a car is available for him. The applicant is then given three hours within which to declare his intention and ability to load the car, and a further time allowance of twenty-four hours is given within which to load. If the applicant cannot load the car it goes to the next name on the list who ordered a car of that capacity.

Agents of elevator companies must sign for cars in the same manner as the grain producers and are treated the same except that they are allowed two cars as compared with one for the farmers. This is to allow elevator companies to ship their accumulations of street wheat.

It is not necessary for a grain producer to have his grain in the elevator when he signs the car order book, but it is wise for him to have all plans made in order to anticipate his turn, so that he can load his car within the required time.

THERE SHOULD BE A MEMORIAL

The offer of the Peterborough Old Boys' Association of Toronto to co-operate with the local City Council, the County Council and Chamber of Commerce in a movement to honor the memory of the late David Fife, of this county, whose experiments in wheat added enormously to the national wealth of Canada, should be acted upon.

Although not a native of the Dominion, David Fife was one of the pioneers of this county, and it is entirely fitting that there should be a monument in the county town paying tribute to the memory of the man who by reason of his discovery of the wheat that was named Fife after him with the descriptive word "red" added was responsible for the development of the Western Provinces.

Red Fife wheat, the parent of Marquis and Garnet and practically every other successful variety grown in Canada, made Ontario a wheat-producing Province, and its arrival in Canada into a wheat belt.

It was not until 1908 that it was discovered that the wheat developed by Fife was grown in Galicia.

"Had the farmers of this Dominion," says a writer in Maclean's Magazine, "been compelled to wait these sixty-four years the entire development of Canada would have been changed. It is impossible to imagine the course which events would have taken. There would have been no rush of settlers to the prairie West no Sifton immigration policy. The year 1908 would have been a date in the history of the Dominion. The prairies at best would have been a ranching country."

There should be a memorial in Peterborough as a lasting tribute to a Peterborough County resident, who did so much for Canada.—Peterborough Examiner.

MILLET WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The August meeting of the Millet W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. H. Phillips, with twenty-two members and twenty-three visitors present. The meeting opened with singing. The roll call was answered by "Pledge Recites," and this was followed by a short business meeting.

Mrs. E. R. Hoskins, Convenor of Agriculture, gave a very interesting paper on this subject, which was enjoyed by all.

The meeting adjourned following a half hour of community singing. Lunch was served by Mrs. H. Phillips, Mrs. Van Arx and Mrs. Nelson. The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harkness.

"What would you say to anyone who sits himself down on your hat?" "I should call him an idiot and a stupid ass."

"That's all I wish to know—you are sitting on mine!"

Two scholarships at McGill University, Montreal, covering five years' tuition for employees who are minors or minor sons of employees have been awarded by the Canadian Pacific Railway this year, one to C. P. Stuebe, son of E. P. Stuebe, assistant general passenger agent and the other to William P. Dunlop, son of John Dunlop of the pension department of the railway at the head office of the company. The scholarships provide for five years' tuition in the faculty of arts followed by four years' tuition in architecture, chemical, civil, mechanical or electrical engineering.

Right Hon. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer in the late British Government, arrived in Great Britain, arrived in Canada recently on the Empress of Australia and made a tour of the country from Montreal to Victoria. He visited Toronto, Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, Calgary, Banff, Lake Louise, Steamboat, Vancouver and Victoria. He will leave the latter city September 5 arriving at Seattle the same evening. He travelled Canadian Pacific railway and steamships during the whole of his trip.

Purchased for a sum in excess of $50,000, an oil painting of Lord Nelson, by Sir Anthony Van Dyck, court painter to King Charles I., was carried by the Canadian Pacific Express Company by steamer Montreal to Montreal recently. Very special precautions being taken to ensure safe delivery. It was bought by A. N. Nesbitt, prominent business leader of Montreal.

Commercial apple crop in the province of Nova Scotia this year will total about 1,500,000 barrels, about 420,000 barrels more than last year. The Ontario crop is estimated at 770,000 barrels, up 210,000 barrels over 1928. The British Columbia crop placed at 5,528,100 boxes, about 19 per cent. less than last year. The raspberry crop is reported good all over the Dominion.

As a result of experiments conducted over several years past, officials of the Canadian Federal Department of Agriculture feel assured that two or three varieties of wheat have been at last developed that will resist rust. No names have yet been given the new varieties and it will be two or three years before they can be produced in sufficient quantities for seed distribution.

Hans Andersen, his wife, two daughters and two sons, are the first settlers to arrive in the new Danish Colony in Hants County, Nova Scotia, which is being promoted by the Canadian Pacific Railway Colonization and Development Department. They have gone to the Western district where they purchased a farm and will go into dairying and hog raising on a large scale.

Since 1921 the total turbine installation in the Dominion has increased from 2,754,000 horse-power to 5,550,000, more than 550,000 horse-power having been installed in 1928. The Dominion has now nearing completion or in active prospects will, on completion, add a further two million horse-power within the next few years. In the Prairie Provinces the developed horse-power has nearly tripled since 1921.

Doctors of a Rochester, N.Y., hospital can play tennis without neglecting their patients. A loud speaker has been placed on the cornice of a staff dormitory adjacent to the court, by which the doctors' wishes are wanted, his name is called by the telephone operator on the court.

Bowels Wouldn't Move For Two or Three Days Suffered Terribly

Mr. D. M. Hawryluk, St. Julien, Sask., writes: "I suffered terribly, for few years, from constipation. My bowels, sometimes, would not move for two or three days. I could hardly walk, or work, from the pains across my stomach."

"I tried several medicines, but did not get any better. One day I decided to try

HILLSIDE U.F.A. NEWS

The regular monthly meeting of the Hillside U.F.A. was held at the home of W. Heslop on Friday, August 9th, with a very large attendance of members. Several visitors were also present.

Reports on the annual picnic and also the excursion to Pigeon Lake were presented to the meeting, but as these were not yet quite complete, it was decided that a final disposition of these matters should be left till the September meeting.

The question of the Local's twine order was next taken up, and offers read from a number of different firms. After considerable discussion, it was decided by a large majority, to place the order with the U.G.G. at Millet.

Literature from the Livestock Pool new sign-up, was read and distributed among the members. This will be further discussed at the next meeting.

Mr. Howes reported that Millet had challenged Hillside to a game of basketball in Millet at an early date. This was accepted, and Captain Dowdell, chief of the Hillside "Bulldogs," was instructed to make the necessary arrangements.

After transacting considerable other business, enrolling one more new member, and enjoying the usual sumptuous repast and pleasant social hour, the meeting adjourned. The next meeting will be at the home of H. Marr on Friday, Sept. 13th.

On Wednesday, Aug. 14, at 2:30 p.m., the Hillside Bulldogs journeyed to Millet and looked horns with Jimmy Scharf's All-Star basketballers. Once again the Millet team proved to be no match for the Bulldogs, whose snappy combination play kept their opponents on the run. The final score was 10 to 4 in favor of Hillside, but it looked even worse than that. This is the third consecutive defeat for the Millet team, and it would appear that they are due for some vigorous training before they can again claim a return match.

HILLSIDE JUNIOR U. F. A.

The August meeting of the Hillside Juniors was held at the home of H. Young on the evening of Friday, Aug. 16th.

A large crowd was present, and interest was heightened by the presence of Miss Jones, the Junior Director, Mrs. Ross, the U.F.W.A. Director, and Wm. Irvine, M.P.

After the business of the Local had been disposed of, all present listened with interest to a short talk by Miss Jones. Her subject was "Choosing a Vocation in Life," and she did it full justice, the only regret being that she was all too brief.

Mrs. Ross, who was next called upon to speak, upheld her reputation as a humorist, by a few friendly digs at her fellow co-operation at all times. Using a series of charts to illustrate her points, Mr. Irvine the next speaker began to sketch the development of society since the dawn of modern civilization. This was followed with rapid interest by all. The theme will be developed further at a future meeting.

After a very pleasant social time, the meeting finally broke up at a late hour.

The next meeting will be held at the home of E. R. Hoskins, Sept. 20th.

Makes Life Sweeter

Children's stomachs sour, and need an antidote. Keep their systems sweet with Phillips Milk of Magnesia!

When tongue or breath tells of acid condition—correct it with a spoonful of Phillips. Most men and women have been comforted by this universal sweetener—more mothers should invoke its aid for their children. It is a pleasant play for the purpose. No household should be without it.

Phillips is the genuine, prescription product physicians endorse for general use; the name is important. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U.S. registered trade mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

AUTO PRODUCES ENORMOUS REVENUE

Automobile traffic is playing a major part in the raising of revenue for the provincial exchequers, according to an analysis of provincial finances issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The remarkable increase in the use of automobiles, both for business purposes and pleasure, is evidenced by the returns from gasoline taxation and motor licenses.

For the last fiscal year, the revenue from automobile licenses in all the provinces amounted to $18,980,716. During the same period gasoline taxation contributed $9,151,735 to the different provincial treasuries.

These are huge sums. No one will deny that motor traffic, which uses the highways most largely, should contribute heavily to the cost of building and maintaining them. With special taxation on so severe a scale, however, there is justification for the demand of the motoring community that revenue so raised should be earmarked for the purposes of highway improvement.

meet, this proposition is advanced strongly as was the case of the annual convention yesterday of the Alberta-Montana Highway Association in Lethbridge. It is a reasonable attitude to assume.

If the combined gasoline and motor license revenue were devoted exclusively to highway improvement throughout the Dominion, marked impetus would result in construction and maintenance of roads. Twenty-eight millions devoted intelligently to that purpose annually would in a few years bring about a marked improvement in the highway system of Canada.—Calgary Herald.

The August meeting of the Millet Local of U.F.W.A., took the form of a lawn party at the home of Mrs. W. Ross and the Thompson Brothers, on Thursday, the 15th. Mr. Robert Hoskins of Clive, was chairman for the very interesting program of the occasion. The first speaker, Mr. Seymour, addressed the assembly on the subject of Farmstead Planning and Beautification, and Mrs. F. Higginson followed with a humorous reading "Bill in Trouble," given in her happy manner. Miss Jones of Ponoka, director of the Junior Department, spoke on Young People's work. Little Lorraine Higginson delighted the audience with a solo dance. Wm. Irvine, M.P., gave an informal address, which was well received. Lunch was served to the attendance of over two hundred, many of these being from Ponoka, Leduc, Bentley, Clive, Hillsdale and other localities. Dancing followed into the "wee sma' hours."

Miss Dorothy Scott of Wetaskiwin, is holidaying with the Misses L. and K. Marr.

LONE RIDGE

The August meeting of the U.F.A. was followed by a program well rendered by local talent, assisted by Miss Marcella Larson of Stony Plain and Evelyn Charlot of Millet. An address on Junior organization work by Miss E. Jones of Morningdale, was very interesting and resulted in the Junior U.F.A. Local of Lone Ridge being organized. The Junior Local from Hillsdale was present, and Chas. Robinson gave an outline of the program of their visitings. Mrs. W. Ross of Millet, U.F.W.A. director, spoke for a short time along lines of her work, after which refreshments were served.

Miss Marcella Larson of Stony Plain, returned to her home after spending a week as the guest of Miss Elsie Anderson.

Miss Amy Cummings is visiting her sister, Mrs. L. Clark, of Waskatchewan. Visits have been made by the Young People's Society of the Brightview Baptist church to Battle Lake, and Battle Lake returned the call on Friday evening. These visits have been a huge success and plans may be made to make them part of the Fall program. Games were played outside until dark, and then inside until refreshments were served. Everyone reported a most enjoyable time.

A bonfire and wicker roast were attractions at the first Junior U.F.A. meeting held on August 13th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sproule. Games were played on the lawn until dusk, followed by the business meeting, which was held on the verandah. Quaint Japanese lanterns afforded soft lights, as well as being very attractive. Five new members were enrolled, bringing the total to twenty members. Committees were named to prepare a program of work for the remainder of the year. The next meeting will be held Friday, Sept. 13th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Allberg.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Martin and Loreen of Wetaskiwin, and Hazel and Harold Cline of Usona, were among the visitors at the Junior U.F.A. meeting on Tuesday evening.

FALUN

Mr. and Mrs. Bjornstedt are visiting with the latter's sister, Mrs. C. Isaacson for a few days. They will soon return to their home in Seattle, Wash.

Miss Olga Swanson has returned from her extended visit at Vancouver. Mrs. Leo Monaghan has returned home from the Wetaskiwin hospital and is recovering nicely.

We are all sorry to hear of Edith Melton being quarantined, as her aunt had diphtheria while visiting in Calgary.

Many farmers have begun cutting their grain, but some of them are kept busy fighting fires which have started burning in the ground.

We hope to hear wedding bells soon ring, as some of our younger set are intending to become united by a string.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson are sorry to hear that they are leaving and intend to make their future home in Vancouver.

School days are here again, and Arthur Ward is the teacher for Falun school for the third term.

Marjorie and Russell, Steadman have been camping at the lake for about a month.

SENTENCED TO ONE HOUR IN CUSTODY OF ALTA. POLICE

His Honor Judge Lees disposed of a speedy trial in Criminal Court, at the Court House on the 20th inst., in the case of Rex vs. Guya Puskar, a Hungarian of no fixed abode, charged with obtaining merchandise to the extent of $174.26, from B. W. Oulmette of Mulhurst, on the 29th December last. Accused was defended by P. G. Thompson, K.C., of Edmonton. Accused was found guilty, and sentenced to imprisonment of one hour in the custody of the Alberta Provincial Police at Wetaskiwin, in addition to three months already served at Fort Saskatchewan. W. H. Odell, K.C., acted for the Crown.
